

GASTON MAY STILL BE FRIENDLY TO DEAR JOSIAH, OF POLITICS

WILLIAM A. GASTON.

As Transit Commissioner, Ex-State Chairman Will Be Quite Close to the "L."

JOSIAH QUINCY.

"AND neither the angels in Heaven above, Nor the demons down under the sea, Can ever dissever my soul from the soul of the beautiful Anndel Lee." (Edgar Allan Poe.)

OF WILLIAM A. GASTON, the acknowledged son of the Honorable State machine in general and of the "L." in particular, need not say that Mr. Quincy's "sweet girl" has just become Mr. Quincy's daughter from the State Committee chairmanship.

For Mr. Quincy to be a member of the Boston Transit Commission, apparently to promote extended to him by Mr. P. Fitzgerald as far back as that day. The Transit Commission is supervising the construction of Boston Elevated railway underground, on the ground and above the ground.

Mr. Quincy in his new job will be in touch with the "L."

Mr. Quincy is already in close touch with the "L." He has been its president, and its chief administrator, for years. He is also its treasurer, and its chief financial officer. He is also its chief executive officer, and its chief administrative officer.

Missing "Reciprocity-Anti-Machine" Papers Showed Up Early at Headquarters.

SEIBERLICH DROPS OUT

Figure N. Puss, the proposed anti-machine candidate for Lieutenant Governor, had pledged delegations that had such of the respective wards of Boston when the Republican nomination party in the State primaries were opened at 2 o'clock this morning at the headquarters of the Boston City Committee, No. 6 Boston street.

Contrary to expectation the machine had no pledged delegations in the wards, but it is practically certain that all the pledged delegations are favorable to the nomination of Lieutenant Governor John S. Draper.

The other twenty wards of the machine ticket bore the designation "Solid and frugal".

The pledged delegations were in Ward 1, 11, 15, 17 and 18.

The State delegation is headed by former Governor John L. Bates, and in Ward 11 the Back Bay ward of former State Thomas N. Hart.

In Ward 15 that old political warfare K. Martin Hild had the pledged delegation, and it is safe to say that it is a machine ticket.

Charles A. House leads the pledged delegation from Ward 18, and another, headed by James J. Quintan, leads the delegation from the rest interests of the ward.

Charles H. Seiberlich, the candidate for the State delegation, is headed by James J. Quintan, leads the delegation from the rest interests of the ward.

MRS. ASTOR GOES TO AID OF FISHERMEN IN PERIL

MRS. JOHN JACOB ASTOR, SOCIETY LEADER.

Noted New York woman, who, with friends went to aid of fishermen in danger of Scottish coast.

New York Society Leader Tells Interesting Tales of Adventures on Island of Mull.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Returning from a long sojourn in a quaint little fishing village on the island of Mull, off the west coast of Scotland, Mrs. John Jacob Astor relates a series of adventures that would make a splendid foundation for a popular novel.

The American society leader is the guest of the Earl and Countess of Lonsdale at Lough Castle, and she is entertaining her friends with a recital of her adventures.

Accompanied by two women friends Mrs. Astor went to the fishing village and engaged two of the native men to take them out daily.

Mrs. Astor had several adventures. Once the nets became entangled and the boat nearly capsized.

FOR PROCTOR IN VERMONT

Because he was unable to secure relief from severe headaches caused by the intense heat of last month, John Lord, twenty-eight, unmarried, of No. 39 Auburn street, Maiden, committed suicide early this morning by shooting himself with a revolver. He was fired. This entered the temple, causing almost instant death.

Lord was nearly proscribed by the heat of the day. He was suffering from a severe headache, and was unable to get any relief from the heat. He was in the habit of taking a large quantity of alcohol, and was in a state of intoxication at the time of the shooting.

breath. He suffered with severe asthma, and although he tried many remedies, he was unable to find relief. Before his death, he told his doctor to tell his father, brother and sister, telling that he thought he could stand the suffering no longer.

At 6 o'clock to-day Miss Lord heard the door open and saw her father, who went upstairs. Her mother, who was what the master John was found, was sitting in the room with her hand and the blood pouring from a wound on his chest. She called for a nurse, but he was so weak that he could not be moved, he died.
